

I take in breath

I take in breath, her breath, and it gives life,
Passing through her lips into mine in a passionate embrace.
The future found in the strawberry taste of this moment,
Soul twisted two meld into one perfect being of desire.
Her heart beats in my chest giving force to love,
An ache a need a final realization of purpose found in a kiss.

I take in beauty, her beauty, and it gives meaning,
Wildflowers dance in her wind as she chases the sun.
I know now why the sunset fights to be so beautiful,
Colors streaking the sky vying for her attention and approval.
Natures beauty dismissed in her presence as an afterthought,
An ache a need a final realization of perfection found in a smile.

I take in passion, her passion, and it gives emotion,
Sadness in a tear, joy in a laugh, hope in a dream.
All things fall into place and time means nothing,
She is the one to open the locked heart within me.
Knocking down the walls and giving me back to myself,
An ache a need a final realization of self, found in love

I take in love, her love, and it gives everything,
Emotion, meaning, and life changing the essence of my world.
Showing where the broken pieces finally fit,
She completes me leading me from the darkness into the light.
A new day found in a new life surrounded by her perfection,
An ache a need a final realization of happiness found in her.